KEEPING IT LOCAL:
HEALTHY ACHIEVERS SELECTS DAYSTAR COMPUTER SERVICES TO DEVELOP INTRICATE BUSINESS MANAGEMENT APPLICATION

Custom-designed database and communication management application to integrate company-wide operations for national worksite health and wellness provider

NEWINGTON, NH – June 10, 2008 – Demonstrating the positive impact of local business partnerships, Daystar Computer Services is pleased to announce that it has been selected by Healthy Achievers to design and develop a custom-made application to serve the company's business operations nationwide. The new system will encompass all business, client, event, inventory, sales, marketing and communication management, thus consolidating current multiple applications and increasing operational efficiency and information manageability.

With headquarters in Portsmouth, NH, Healthy Achievers provides worksite wellness programs, health screenings, immunizations and occupational health services to businesses and organizations. Healthy Achievers employees spread across the United States provide approximately 25,000 individual on-site services to clients each year. Such scope of services places unique demands on staff management, client communication, service scheduling, event execution, and control of decentralized inventory supplies.

Healthy Achievers required a tool that would enable the company to more efficiently manage these unique needs and would integrate all administrative, operational, customer and business development functions into a single, centralized application.

“We reviewed standard, out-of-the-box products and could not find anything that met all of our needs. With such a significant investment, we would not settle for what was essentially, in our situation, an incomplete product,” said Debbie Jordan, president of Healthy Achievers.

Following extensive review, the company selected Newington-based Daystar Computer Services to design and develop a complete, custom-made database and communication management system.

“We preferred, if possible, to contract a local company to develop the system, and were fortunate to find the level of service and expertise we required with Daystar,” continued Jordan. “Working with Daystar allows us to collaborate more closely and observe the project throughout development. This system is too important to trust to just anybody. Currently, no one else in our industry has anything as powerful and comprehensive; it will truly set us apart from the competition.”

Daystar proposed a hybrid system built on Microsoft technologies, emphasizing faster performance, built-in redundancy, improved security, and robust remote accessibility. System development is currently underway. In addition to application development, Healthy Achievers also relies on Daystar’s technical division to upgrade its network in anticipation of supporting the advanced system. Recent upgrades included the implementation of cutting-edge virtualization technologies to provide further efficiency, portability and data security.

“Working with a successful, local company like Healthy Achievers is an honor. Their dedication to customer service, efficiency and quality echoes our values here at Daystar. The scope of this new system is quite progressive and reinforces Healthy Achievers’ goal of offering the best service possible to their clients across the country,” said Keith Bamford, chief executive officer and co-founder of Daystar Computer Services.
